Biodynamic farming is one of the most sustainable and regenerative forms of agriculture in the world. Demeter is the brand for certified products from biodynamic farming. Find out about our food quality and our principles!

One important principle is how we care for our animals – who are part of the farm organism.

DEMETER
PRINCIPLE

RESPECT FOR THE NATURE OF ANIMALS

Animal welfare is our highest priority. Farm animals not only provide milk, meat, eggs and honey; first and foremost they produce valuable manure – essential for healthy, nutrient-rich soil. Farmers create conditions on their farms that allow animals to live in a way that suits their nature, free-range and pasture-fed. Animal feed ideally comes from the farm where they live and is not externally. The animals are never mutilated – dehorning, debeaking, wing clipping, tail cutting and tail docking are prohibited.

//

Cows have horns. A horn is a living organ with very good blood circulation. The horns grow in the course of a cow’s lifetime – they grow larger and take on their own individual shape: unique, like a person’s fingerprint. Needless to say, I respect this important organ my cattle have, and I enjoy watching them communicate with one another in the herd, resulting in a harmonious hierarchy.”
